Purpose, Role and Duties of Planning Commission

Based on the Charter, the Planning Commission is a quasi-judicial body which acts in an advisory capacity to the City Council in all matters pertaining to the physical development of the City and consists of seven commissioners that are volunteers and are appointed by the City Council and who meet once a month, except in the month of July.

As prescribed by Ordinance, after a public hearing, the Commission makes a recommendation to the City Council on:

- General Plan Amendments
- Zoning of Real Property
- Changes to the Zoning Code
- Land Subdivisions

And, after a public hearing, the Commission takes final action, except in the event of an appeal, for the granting of any:

- Conditional Use Permit
- Variances
- Appeals of Director's Decision's for Single-Family residential projects, Minor Modifications, and CEQA determinations.

Per the City Code, when making decisions, the Planning Commission must find that a project is:

- consistent with the General Plan
- any applicable Specific Plan
- the subject zone
- applicable provisions of the Zoning Code and the City Code
- that the design, location, size, and operating characteristics of the proposed use are compatible with the allowed uses
- that the operation of the use at the location would not be detrimental to the harmonious and orderly growth of the City or constitute hazard to the public convenience, health, interest, safety, or general welfare
- that the site is physically suitable for the project/use in terms of design, location, operating characteristics, shape, size, topography, and the provision of public and emergency vehicle access and public services and utilities
- that the site is served by highways and streets adequate in width and improvement to carry the type and quantity of traffic the proposed use would likely generate

To make informed decisions, the Commission seeks trainings on topics relevant to their decision making by attending conferences and procuring study sessions on relevant topics. These items are reflected in their workplan. In addition, during the course of its work, the Planning Commission has also identified a list of land use priorities for City Council to consider during its priority setting process, which is also reflected in the workplan.
